

An American travelling around the world for a holiday met a girl and married her in two weeks. I understand his friends have decided to spend their holidays at home.

All the big nations have agreed not to go to war, so they are now building war-ships to give the sailors a ride.

A little nonsense now and then will undo the best of men.

How the handbag made the boy happy.—Damen Humor, Madrid.

W. W. N. 2788

In this modern age, speed is of paramount importance, whether it be over land, on the sea, or in the air. Busy executives and perishable commodities must arrive at their destinations in as short a time as possible, and all modern science and human ingenuity have been devoted to this end. In this connection it is interesting to learn that the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of France," the fastest passenger vessel in regular service between Canada and Europe, has been transferred to the Pacific where she will vie with the White press for the speed record between recovery and the Orient.

During the World War, the "E s of France" was chosen beca
her speed to be flagship of t
Auxiliary Cruiser Squadron
British Navy. Under the co and of Admiral Sir Dudley de Ch intercepted nearly 10,000 vess between Canada and Euro prevented tons of contraba erials from falling into the han the enemy. Early this year t press" made a cruise from Ne ak to South America and Africa

"Little Father," Hong Kong

Touching at the lonely isle of Tristan da Cunha en route, but another vessel of her fleet, the "Duchess of Atholl" of 20,000 gross tons, will make this "cruise of contrasts" in 1929. The "Empress of France" has 18,250 gross registered tons and was twice chosen by the British navy to carry him to Canada.

Parents and grandfathers as speakers. The ability to think on one's feet is an asset for which many men today would give thousands, but it is best to be developed during early school years.

Britain Is Heavy Creditors.

Britain is still the world's biggest creditor. Her foreign investments total four thousand millions as against the thousand eight hundred millions the United States.

"However you want to take our money from us"

"Well you were trying to take it from each other."—Nagenderbhar Swarier, Munich.

WORLD HAPPENINGS
BRIEFLY TOLD

The Ontario government is expected to raise the 50 cents per gallon tax on native whisky.

Reports of a violent earthquake in Alaska, Russia, "Tartaria," where Hans Cressley is living in 1913, were received in Moscow. No details were given.

Twenty-five villages were submerged as a result of a storm which swept across Canada. The water in the River Volga to overflow in the neighborhood of Astrakhan.

Canada's recent developments in the British dominions is evidenced by the recent arrival at St. John's, the first dirigible, which had strange ways to reach these shores from the Holy Land.

James Smith, of Wembley, A.S., the wheel king of the west, was forced to relinquish his hold on the east championship at the Chicago show, when first place was awarded to Evan Cateson, Victor, Montana.

The Canadian and Federal and United States parliamentarians met in Canada to discuss naval party and management will receive an official recognition by the United States Government.

The first trial of the 30-100, Effraim's new giant dirigible, will be made to Canadian, Bedfordshire. If the trial is successful, the dirigible will proceed shortly afterwards to the United States.

Admiral Sir Roger Keyes, who gained fame as commander of the operations against Zeppelins in the North Sea, has been appointed Commander-in-Chief of the British fleet.

Plans for a tour of Great Britain by 600 secondary school boys of East Canada were adopted at the meeting of the Collegiate Institute of Ottawa, by Dr. J. H. Pugh, senior inspector of Ottawa's public schools.

New York's Newest Club

Aims To Prevent Accidents To Motorists

There are clubs innumerable in the automobile world, but a new one has been recently organized in New York City. The club is the "New York City Automobile Club," which is the first of its kind in the world.

The club is organized for the purpose of making it a membership virtually equal to the complete road network in America. It has received a charter from the secretary of the New York City, the first in the State. The club is the first in the world, in its own words, "to keep the road from killing anybody."

The club is organized in this city with only $3.00, and carries with it a copy of a new book, entitled "The Automobile Club of New York City," which is the first in the world. The club is the first in the world, in its own words, "to keep the road from killing anybody."

The club is organized in this city with only $3.00, and carries with it a copy of a new book, entitled "The Automobile Club of New York City," which is the first in the world. The club is the first in the world, in its own words, "to keep the road from killing anybody."

The club is organized in this city with only $3.00, and carries with it a copy of a new book, entitled "The Automobile Club of New York City," which is the first in the world. The club is the first in the world, in its own words, "to keep the road from killing anybody."

The club is organized in this city with only $3.00, and carries with it a copy of a new book, entitled "The Automobile Club of New York City," which is the first in the world. The club is the first in the world, in its own words, "to keep the road from killing anybody."

The club is organized in this city with only $3.00, and carries with it a copy of a new book, entitled "The Automobile Club of New York City," which is the first in the world. The club is the first in the world, in its own words, "to keep the road from killing anybody."

The club is organized in this city with only $3.00, and carries with it a copy of a new book, entitled "The Automobile Club of New York City," which is the first in the world. The club is the first in the world, in its own words, "to keep the road from killing anybody."

The club is organized in this city with only $3.00, and carries with it a copy of a new book, entitled "The Automobile Club of New York City," which is the first in the world. The club is the first in the world, in its own words, "to keep the road from killing anybody."

The club is organized in this city with only $3.00, and carries with it a copy of a new book, entitled "The Automobile Club of New York City," which is the first in the world. The club is the first in the world, in its own words, "to keep the road from killing anybody."

The club is organized in this city with only $3.00, and carries with it a copy of a new book, entitled "The Automobile Club of New York City," which is the first in the world. The club is the first in the world, in its own words, "to keep the road from killing anybody."

The club is organized in this city with only $3.00, and carries with it a copy of a new book, entitled "The Automobile Club of New York City," which is the first in the world. The club is the first in the world, in its own words, "to keep the road from killing anybody."

The club is organized in this city with only $3.00, and carries with it a copy of a new book, entitled "The Automobile Club of New York City," which is the first in the world. The club is the first in the world, in its own words, "to keep the road from killing anybody."

Tragedy Of The Wids

Left Wounded While Lived Thousands of Years Ago

The pitch lakes which are to be found in various parts of the world are a cause of dread to both man and beast, writes O. G. Pike, the naturalist, in "The Wids."

In the centre you see a black mud coming out of an underground source, and it is so thick and sticky, you can see it in the world, quite so sticky as that dark slime.

It is thicker and far more sticky than the sticky gum on fly-papers. It is a hundred times more sticky than the sticky gum on fly-papers. It is a hundred times more sticky than the sticky gum on fly-papers.

In time the mud hardens and forms a fine kind of asphalt, which is referred to in large blocks and used for paving.

The rains which came yearly from the great ocean, the rivers and lakes began to dry up. The natural world was in a state of great distress, and the people who lived there were in a state of great distress.

As they travelled south they came at last to a gay in the mountains. The people who lived there were in a state of great distress, and the people who lived there were in a state of great distress.

Between them and this land was a small sea of sticky pitch. It pooled and it bubbled, and it was a great danger to the people who lived there. The people who lived there were in a state of great distress, and the people who lived there were in a state of great distress.

And so this vast army of wild things met their end. The pitch was a great danger to the people who lived there. The people who lived there were in a state of great distress, and the people who lived there were in a state of great distress.

And so this vast army of wild things met their end. The pitch was a great danger to the people who lived there. The people who lived there were in a state of great distress, and the people who lived there were in a state of great distress.

And so this vast army of wild things met their end. The pitch was a great danger to the people who lived there. The people who lived there were in a state of great distress, and the people who lived there were in a state of great distress.

And so this vast army of wild things met their end. The pitch was a great danger to the people who lived there. The people who lived there were in a state of great distress, and the people who lived there were in a state of great distress.

And so this vast army of wild things met their end. The pitch was a great danger to the people who lived there. The people who lived there were in a state of great distress, and the people who lived there were in a state of great distress.

And so this vast army of wild things met their end. The pitch was a great danger to the people who lived there. The people who lived there were in a state of great distress, and the people who lived there were in a state of great distress.

And so this vast army of wild things met their end. The pitch was a great danger to the people who lived there. The people who lived there were in a state of great distress, and the people who lived there were in a state of great distress.

And so this vast army of wild things met their end. The pitch was a great danger to the people who lived there. The people who lived there were in a state of great distress, and the people who lived there were in a state of great distress.

And so this vast army of wild things met their end. The pitch was a great danger to the people who lived there. The people who lived there were in a state of great distress, and the people who lived there were in a state of great distress.

TALENTED VIOCALIST

Country Cannot Afford This Expenditure

There seems to be no sound common sense in the expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

Opposing Conductor

Of German Warship

Country Cannot Afford This Expenditure

There seems to be no sound common sense in the expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

DOMINION CONSERVATIVE ASSOCIATION

Country Cannot Afford This Expenditure

There seems to be no sound common sense in the expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Country Cannot Afford This Expenditure

There seems to be no sound common sense in the expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

Plans For World Wheat Congress

Country Cannot Afford This Expenditure

There seems to be no sound common sense in the expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

The country cannot afford this expenditure of money on the part of the Government, writes the editor of the "Times," in "The Talented Vocalist."

